

Acknowledgement Requirements

South Carolina Center for Rural and Primary Healthcare (CRPH) grants and cooperative agreements are made possible through funds allocated by the South Carolina General Assembly. Raising awareness about this funding and its impact on your community is essential to sustain public funding for the great work that you do. Additionally, publicly acknowledging your funding from the CRPH as described below helps community members understand the impact of healthcare funding and the broad range of activities their tax dollars support. In accepting a grant or cooperative agreement from the CRPH, you have agreed to provide proper credit. Failure to comply may jeopardize current or future funding.

Acknowledgement Text and Images

All funding recipients are required to include an acknowledgement statement in all printed or electronic materials including presentations, advertisements, reports, and websites related to funded activities. When appropriate, you should also include a CRPH logo. If you need additional guidance on which logo to use or making alterations to the statement, please reach out at SCRuralHealthcare@uscmed.sc.edu. The example statement provided below can be edited to suit your publications as needed:

“[Primary] support for this work was funded by the South Carolina Center for Rural and Primary Healthcare as part of the state’s rural health initiative.”

You can download several versions of our logo in the Funded Programs Toolbox located on our website. When possible/appropriate please hyperlink the logo to the SC CRPH website: SCRuralhealth.org

Social Media Acknowledgement

If your project/program is on any social media platforms, make sure to acknowledge the CRPH in your bio or posts. You can do this by using the acknowledgement text above or by tagging the CRPH in the relevant post.

Boilerplate Text

If you need language to describe the CRPH for press releases or non-scientific text, please use the following:

“The South Carolina Center for Rural and Primary Healthcare accelerates the development and support of sustainable healthcare delivery, training and educational initiatives, and innovative programs for rural communities. We strive for a future where all South Carolinians have access to high value, quality health care.”

Reporting Requirements

When you succeed, we succeed! Let us know about any reports, press releases, articles, or posts related to your funded programs. You can share the materials through email as they are released or include them in your quarterly reports. This not only helps us track your achievements but also helps us amplify your successes within our communication channels.
